

Course: How to Prepare a Case Report: From Concept to Publication

Course Description:

This course demystifies the process of conceiving a quality case report and following it through to publication. Dr. Passmore peer reviews case reports on a regular basis for clinical peer reviewed journals. From that perspective and his own experience with case report publication he provides unique insight as he shares with you the process, pitfalls to avoid, what to expect, and where to look for more information when performing such a contribution to clinical health science literature.
